

IMPACT YOUR COMMUNITY

Hone your teaching methods and improve your student learning outcomes when you earn your Master of Arts in Teaching and Learning (MATL) degree. Help your entire community by identifying and responding to their specific needs and problems.

Take your master's degree in education further by earning your Specialist Degree in Teacher Leadership (SETL). Assume a leadership role and make impactful decisions within your school district / community.

Courses for these degrees are delivered in a variety of ways—seated, online, and hybrid. Even seated courses will save you time and money as most are delivered at (or very near) a school site in your district.

Missouri State strives to provide you with a quality education within your financial reach. In addition to presenting you with diverse financial options, the College of Education awards approximately 60 scholarships to eligible students annually.
